Credit has been attributed to all involved within this program. Fingers crossed. Although individual sketch authors are specified, the Keep Tucson Sketchy writing team works in unison to hard edit, “punch up” and bring you hilarious entertainment, so props and love to all.

They say that art imitates life, but as creators of this show over the last few years, we’ve found many instances where life imitates art. Specifically our art. We’ve seen satire we’ve made come to fruition; we’ve seen our sketch premises turn into actual commercials and many other weird synchronicities between what we’ve created and what we see in the world. On that note, please enjoy our inception style dive into politics. And remember, whatever ideas you put into your mind could become reality, which is why we focus on lovely fun and clever hilarity. Oh yeah: buy some alcohol and enjoy the show!

Thank You David Pike/Screening Room for hosting!
